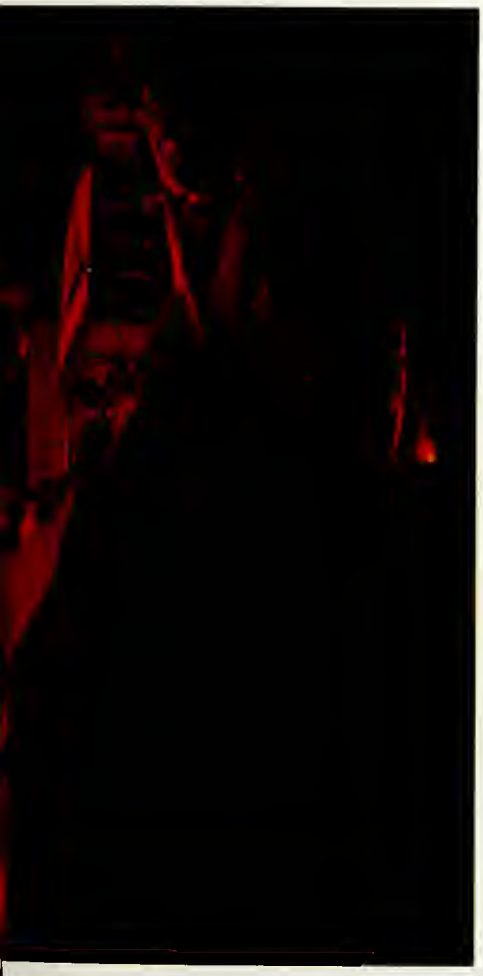
He Had a Dream
UPWARD
EXPERIENCE

We are embodied in a Christian university at a time when both we and the Church are undergoing religious adolescence. We can accept no longer our simple, security-blanket faith of yesterday. But growing up isn't easy, and we are troubled and afraid. We ask our Jesuit mentors questions for which answers can only be suggested. How can we make our faith more meaningful? Where do the Church and the faithful fit in our turbulent, Godless world? A few of us opt for the social apostolate as an answer. But most of us grope hesitantly, quietly and alone for our own answer that we pray will be right.

BOURBON ST.



New Orleans is a conglomerate. It is the city that care forgot, the city of night life and lights, of Mardi Gras and the French Quarter. It is the city of tradition and elegance, of Lee Circle and the Garden District. At the same time, it is the city of racial discrimination and prejudice, of grinding poverty and extensive slums. It is a confluence of cultures and customs which have formed and developed a unique entity . . . the Yat. It is a city of Saints and sinners where nuns walk side by side with strippers, priests with pushers, police with gangsters and reformers with left-handed politicians. It is the city of daily rain and fog . . . of azaleas and gardenias . . . of Dixieland jazz in Jackson Square . . . of a streetcar ride for a dime . . . of leisurely drinks in a quiet French quarter patio. The New Orleans atmosphere is unique. It has a cosmopolitan tang that at the same time is strangely provincial. Those of us who live in the city swear by our 250 year-old home. Many of us from out of state swear at it. But none of us can deny the magnetism of the city and the fact that it is a tremendous education in life.

In all Loyola's disciplines . . . Arts and Sciences, Business, Music and the professions . . . the academic family is very tightly knit. The ten-to-one student-to-faculty ratio makes possible the personalized academics of which we are proud. Our instructors take an active interest in developing our inquisitiveness and in helping us overcome our apathetic inertia. They pose questions to our own questions, challenge us in classes, seminars and symposia and direct us to diverse outside readings. There is a willingness to change, as the revamped theology and philosophy programs show. The academic atmosphere is freewheeling, but most of us care more for grades than for intellectual achievement. In the end, it is we who must will to improve ourselves.

We value both individual and team effort. We compete among ourselves and with other universities; we put our talents on the line as a matter of pride and to keep our performances at a respectable level. For some of us, our intramural and intercollegiate athletic achievements are a source of pride that carries over into academic pursuits and campus activities. But most of us are unconcerned. Win or lose, our attendance at Wolfpack sports events is poor; too few of us bother to enter intramurals. We have a long way to go collectively before our spectator efforts and attitudes approach the spirited level of our participating athletes.

At Homecoming we renew our ties with the past. In the midst of the decorations, excitement and meeting of old friends, we place ourselves beside the old grads and see how we measure up. Loyola is their legacy to us which we have been commissioned to improve. Have we done as much as they to make the University viable? Have we given of ourselves as they have (and still do) to advance Loyola along the upward trail to excellence, or have we taken what they have given us and done nothing with it?

G E R

Our best asset is our social amiability. We mix easily with each other both at formal and informal events. It is here that we establish, cement and reinforce personal relationships. It is here that we realize that we are our own best resource. . . . that if we can unite and work together in this context, we can do the same to accomplish what needs to be done in the University. We have a good thing going. We should have a better thing going. We can leave Loyola a much better university than we found it. All we need do is look to ourselves. And act.

WOLF 69

There Are Faces . . .

There are always a few faces that can tell a lot, about the times and the feeling of the times. This was the year of Hair, the musical and the growth. Girls wear it longer than ever and the guys aren't far behind, with burns and beards besides. It seems harder these days to get a 2.0, much less a 3.5, and some people don't even know who Scranton Mouton is. Entertainment is more honest, earthier, sweatier, yet more sophisticated. Faces say all this.

This was the year of Dave Segal, the year of the tempest in a teapot. A lot of the arguments were silly, but many of them were simply growing pains. One sign of the university's increasing maturity is its ability to stand back occasionally and laugh at itself. Dave Segal is no Bob Hope, but some of his poisoned darts have hit the university funny bone. So who could blame one sorority for a Talent Night skit which ridiculed the sometimes ridiculous?

Fortunately, Loyola is small enough for survival of the human, the individual, the personal. And just as fortunately, it is showing more freedom in allowing manifestation of these qualities.

The Beatles were right, "There are faces I remember . . ."

World Campus

Loyola feels the graduate of today must be a citizen of the world community. The junior year abroad in England, France or Italy, the summer tours in Europe and the summer school in Mexico are parts of a unique program to aid in developing students that they may play their part as leaders.

Attending the summer school in sunny Mexico were 88 Loyola students. Another 44 students visited London, Amsterdam, Lucerne, Rome, Grenoble and 20 other cities, as participants in the two European trips of 1968. The junior year abroad enrolled 12 students in Rome, one at the Sorbonne and one at the University of Paris, as Loyola students continue to bring the best of many worlds to our New Orleans campus.

Registration: A Slow Start

Loyola's version of a physical endurance test is registration, and sometimes it seems easier to join the Marines. But things have improved since registration has moved into the Field House, although the infinite Finance line was back in Marquette. The service organizations, APO and LSL, have made the process more endurable for those who don't bend, fold, staple or mutilate.

Ritual Symbolizes Ideal LU Coed

Every year the new members of Cardinal Key and the freshman coeds of the University participate in a ceremony that sums up the life of an ideal Loyola coed. The freshmen receive the Seal of Loyola, symbolizing the high goals set by the University. The Cardinal Key members have largely attained these goals. They are the same coeds who received the Seal as freshmen; they have gone on to train for leadership in the college community. They receive their keys as the sign of their scholastic and extracurricular accomplishments. The Key and Seal Ceremony is arranged by Cardinal Key with the participation of the University Chaplain.

Mass Invokes Holy Spirit

The Mass of the Holy Spirit sets the tone for the entire scholastic year, as students, faculty and administrators attend the concelebrated Mass. At the occasion all ask for help, guidance, and a little inspiration in the months to come.

Graduating seniors wear caps and gowns for the first time, as they prepare to leave the college community and enter the "outside" world. The Mass is a time set aside for reflection, for dedication, and for enlightenment.

Residence: LaSalle Court

Some say you have to live it to believe it, but Biever Hall and Buddig "Towers" are for real, as are Mrs. Sicard and Sgt. Truss. And what would dorm life be without that cuisine extraordinaire—SAGA? But Loyola's home away from home does have its bright side—sunning on the roof at Buddig, round the clock bull sessions at Biever Hall, a quick nap grabbed in the quiet of an afternoon, the bulging wardrobe of a roommate, and the sharing of a common predicament with understanding friends.

Live From Loyola

Celebrating its third year on campus, WLDC radio has a past to be proud of. It began with a half dozen speech and physics majors in the production booth of Marquette and has grown to a full-fledged closed circuit station, with a staff of about 40, broadcasting 18 hours a day. WLDC, nee WVSU, then WOLF, is the only campus station of its kind to be affiliated with a national network. Its programming includes baseball and basketball games broadcast live on the spot, and "Pulse," a contemporary collegiate version of NBC's Monitor, aside from the usual music and talk shows.

There have also been student ventures into television taping and broadcasting, including 30 programs filmed for teacher education in physics; Project Eight involving Fortier High School and Loyola students in a drama and film experiment; weekly panel discussions with students and famous personalities on Channel Eight; and press conferences with such campus visitors as John Kenneth Galbraith and Art Linkletter.

These projects and programs serve the two-fold purpose of education and service to school and community.

Panels, Symposia Complement Class

Within the university structure, just as much knowledge can be obtained outside the classroom as within.

Numerous conferences, panels and symposia complemented the academic genre of Loyola this year. Besides the now-annual Writer's Symposium sponsored by the Department of English, the Loyola student was invited to attend and participate in the first symposium on the use and effects of drugs.

The second semester saw the Loyola academic community host the symposium on Jesuit theologian Teilhard de Chardin, as well as panel discussions and speakers sponsored by LUSHA.

The end of the academic year brought one last symposium, this one held in conjunction with the Science Complex dedication and graduation. Four renowned scientists, Alton Oschner, Gregory Choppin, M. Scott Carpenter and Dr. Michael DeBakey, all participated in the "Vistas in Science—Tomorrow's Priorities" Symposium.

IAC Trains Latin Leaders

The Inter-American Center, a Division of the Institute of Human Relations, was founded in June of 1964 to train Latin leaders in education and leadership techniques. The IAC, the only one of its kind in the United States, has helped equip almost 700 rural and civic leaders, educators and welfare workers for their fight against poverty, disease and ignorance. This year about 150 participated in the six-week seminar program which has merited high praise from government officials and numerous citations in the Congressional record.

The Big Day Minus One

This was the most successful Homecoming Week in Loyola's history, with record crowds at most of the events. Much of this success was the result of careful planning and hard—though enjoyable—work. The Student Council and Student Union got together on the Student Homecoming Dance, transforming the entire Contract Dining Room and downstairs lounge with bright parachutes. The freshmen got into the act with a mammoth wolf which decorated the end zone at the game Saturday. The Greeks produced their traditional displays of crepe paper and chicken wire artistry, in a rain-punctuated, all-night session that culminated weeks of work. It was an all-out effort on the part of the whole student body, and a warm welcome home to the old grads.

The Day Dawns

Homecoming Day dawned, but not very brightly, as early morning rain dampened a few spirits and a few displays. But the sun soon came out to shine on a full day of activities for both alums and students.

The alumni met early at a Mass in Thomas Hall, then went on to a breakfast in Danna Center. The big event of the day was the football game against Spring Hill Badgers, which the Wolfpack lost against the Spring Hill 20-19 in an edge-of-the-seat thriller. Miss Terry Tracy was crowned, and she and her court were presented at the game and later at the Student Dance and Alumni Ball. A record 1200 undergraduates rocked out at the Student Dance. The Alumni Ball, preceded by the cocktail party for the Class of '43, hosted 300. "Curse, you, Red Badgers," for the only flaw in a perfect "welcome home."

"Good Old Days"

The whole idea of Homecoming is to welcome back the alumni. And this year the alums were welcomed home with an extra special warmth. The events started Sunday, November 10 with a panel discussion of students, teachers and administrators, followed by a cocktail party that evening. The Homecoming Luncheon was held on Thursday of that week at the Royal Orleans Hotel. Mass, a breakfast, a cocktail party for the 25 year class, the Alumni Ball and a late evening "breakfast" all took place Saturday, along with the football game and presentation of the court.

It was a busy Homecoming but one in which students and alumni got together to share a common Loyola experience.

Acting For Fun — And Credit

Loyola's Department of Speech and Drama produced three plays this year as part of their drama curriculum. Under the direction of Dr. Don Brady, Dr. Leo Zinser and Mr. Robert Fleshman, students found outlets for their thespian talents while getting credit for their work. Sets designed by faculty member Miss Carroll Durand were constructed by students in technical theater classes. All three plays were staged at Marquette Hall, and drew appreciative crowds.

Sisters Host Two Rushes

The four sororities of Loyola's Pan-Hellenic Council sponsored rush seasons both semesters for the first time this year. The new rush in January was instituted because second semester freshmen are now eligible. Although the additional rush was extra work, it paid off when the sororities pledged a total of 134 coeds this year, after the usual week's round of parties.

Frats Pledge 88 Men

Second semester saw Loyola's five social fraternities submerged in rush activities. Each had a beer stag and rush formal, interspersed by nightly sessions at their favorite lounge.

Rushees had a chance to meet members in formal and informal gatherings during the weeks of rush. For the members it meant a lot of time, trouble and beer drinking, long nights at blackball sessions, polishing trophies and writing invitations. But the fraternities were rewarded when 88 rushees signed their bids in mid-February.

University Hosts Distinguished Visitors

Speeches, lectures, symposia—even entertainment—dotted the academic calendar during the 1968-69 school year. October saw some of the more prominent figures in the literary world—Shane Stevens, John Williams and M. S. Merwin, to name a few—visit the Loyola campus as participants in the English Department's third annual Writer's Symposium.

The second semester was enlivened by the presence of SAK alum Biff Rose, who added in his own way to the cultural atmosphere of Loyola of '69. But the finishing touches to the cultural year were kept until the last few weeks of the semester, as visits from erudite economist John Kenneth Galbraith, liturgical innovator Rev. Clarence Rivers, and rising young Negro politician Julian Bond highlighted the events of the second semester.

All Work And No Play . . .

Even the most scholarly of students would admit that there is more to college life than classes and booking it. At Loyola there is plenty of social activity for those spare moments spent away from library or lab. The Student Union sponsors almost weekly TGIF's, with bands and beer for two bits. Many organizations give dances at the Union, and the Council backs the Freshman and Spring Cotillions and a dance aboard the S. S. President. On week nights there is the Wolf Pub, with visits from Coffee house Circuit groups.

The city provides its own entertainment, a modest affair called Mardi Gras, when everyone goes berserk, watching parades and walking through the French Quarter. As Spring approaches, the four sororities host House Parties on the Gulf Coast. After which students remember finals and make a mad dash for library and lab. If they can still find them.

Students Go Pro

Twelve student acts entertained an appreciative audience at the 31st Annual Blue Key Talent Night this March at the Municipal Auditorium. The Ronnie Kole Trio, a nationally famed jazz group, put in a special guest appearance. This was the first year since 1958 the show was held in the Auditorium; the move was made to give the show added professionalism.

Mary Decoteau, BA junior, won first in individual competition, Joe Duggan second, and Angelle Trosclair sang her way to third place. The Five Tone Roll placed first in group competition over second place Beggars Blew Grass Band. Tri Sigma was awarded first place in skit competition for "Penelope and Ulysses." The members of Blue Key National Honor Fraternity worked hard to give the show a decidedly professional air. And it was a little difficult to believe that the show was only an amateur production.

LU Matures

Loyola '69 was different in many respects from the Loyola of the past few years. Students, faculty and administrators became more involved in university life, especially in enervating a previously lethargic student body.

There were attacks on the Student Council and its structure, as well as charges of alleged racism within the Greek system, both on campus and at fraternity frequented lounges.

A new, previously untested element of the student body, the Blacks, made their voices heard, through the free speech mikes and in open debate.

Loyola '69 saw the student body emerge from its apathetic shell and take a stand on the issues. Loyola students and the university as a whole took one step closer to maturity in 1969.

Grads Bid Adieu

Graduation marks the culmination of many years of study, of learning, of growing. Whether the degree is a B.A., B.S., B.B.A., L.L.B., D.D.S. or any of the many degrees conferred by Loyola University, it attests to the student's gain and the university's contribution.

A degree not only means that the student has taken and passed the required courses, but that he has worked toward the fulfillment of his total self—intellectually, physically, socially, morally. Graduation is both a death and a rebirth, an end and a beginning. For many it marks the start of careers or professions, for some the stepping stone to further education. For all of the 696 students receiving degrees, for Loyola's faculty and administration, graduation represents a major accomplishment in their lives.

Just A Moment . . .

The University grind—academic, apathetic or revolutionary—can be downright dehumanizing. Too often we the inhabitants become pigeonholed types and the person goes by the board. Students come to be looked on as either uncaring blobs doing nothing or as wild-eyed revolutionaries wanting to take over and/or destroy all. Administrators get it in the neck, too, assuming the image of ultra-conservative automatons with no emotions except a chronic, acute antipathy for smart-aleck students. These masks are too often all that is seen; the real person behind them remains hidden. Loyola is admittedly affected by categoritis, but pretty regularly, the human does show through and clear up the malady, and it is a for-real person we see and not just an archetype. So rejoice, beloved. We haven't lost our humanity yet.

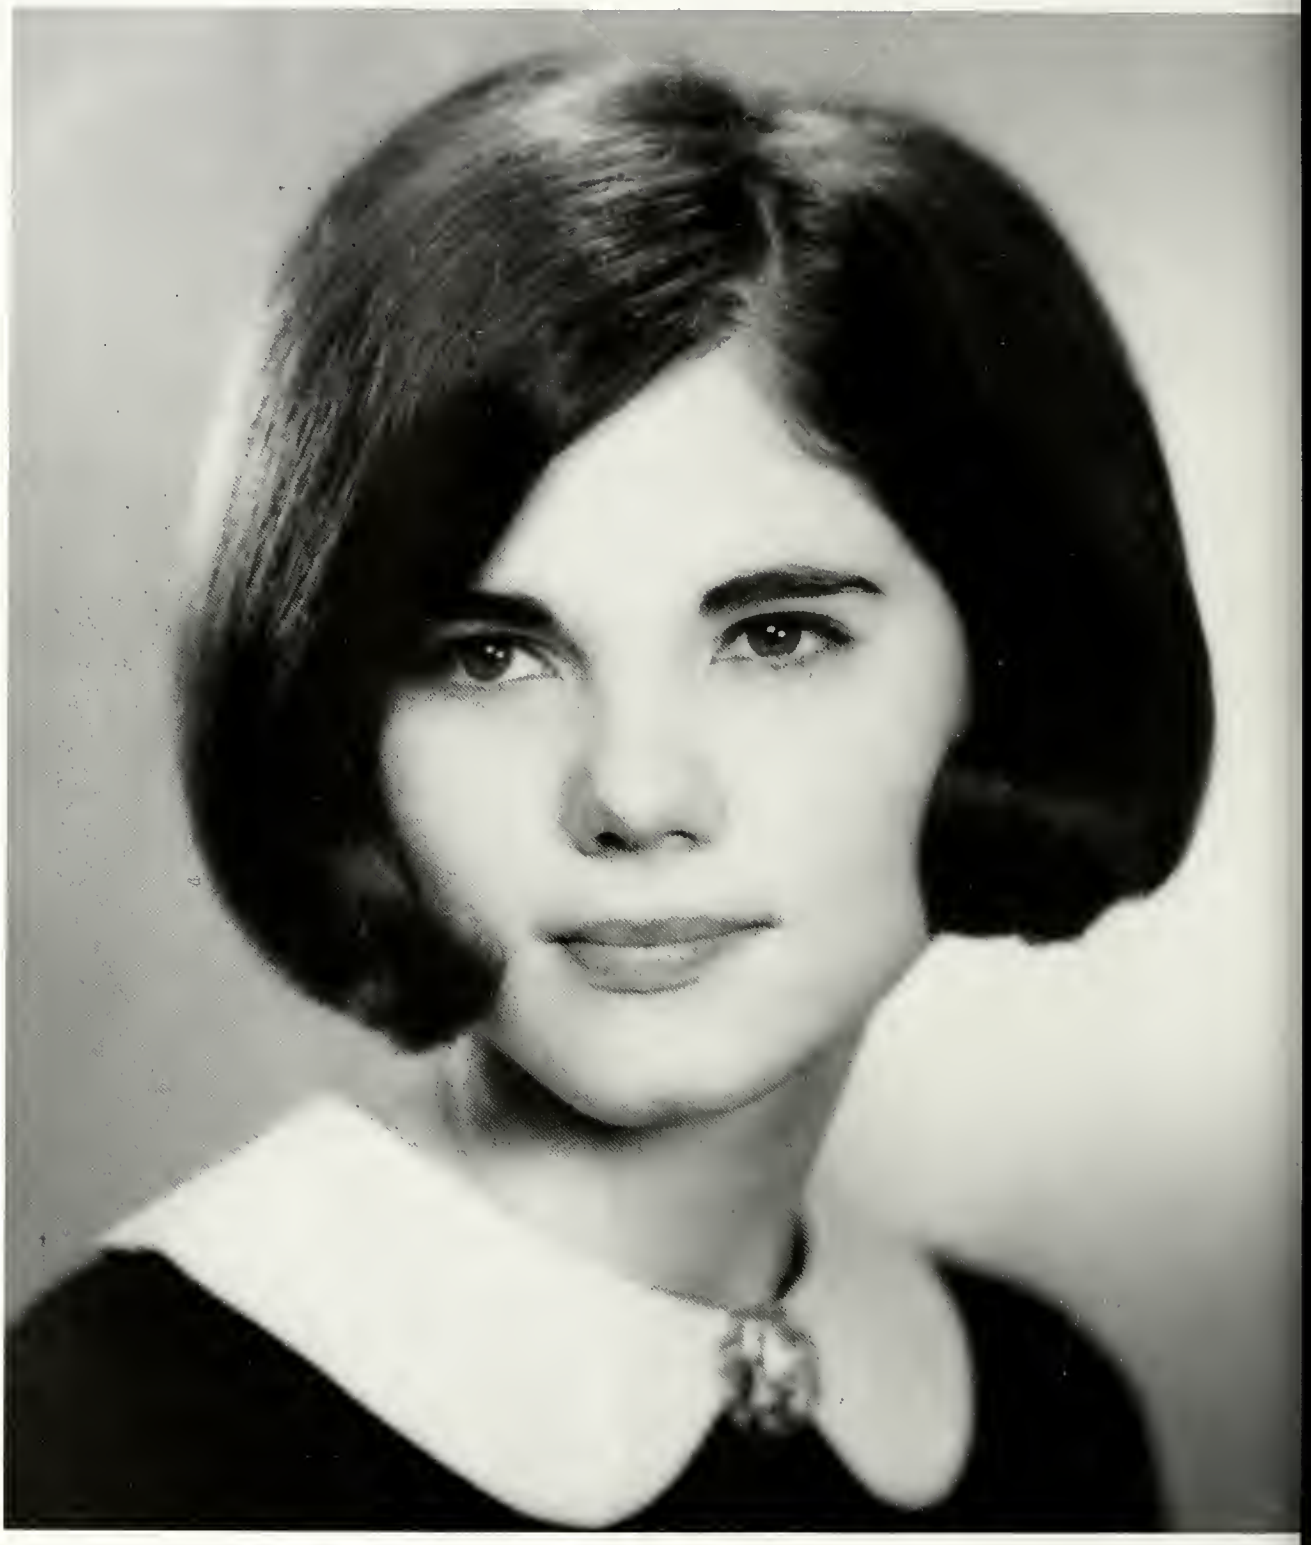
WOLF 69

Ann Higgins
MISS WOLF



Miss Wolf is the perfect coed. She is the girl that can be seen dashing off to attend meetings, waving a cheery hello as she rushes off to class, reflecting in the church or just chatting with friends in the snack bar, but she is always there to lend a helping hand. Ann Higgins typifies the essence of the ideal Loyola coed. Over her four years at Loyola, Ann has been a Wolfette, a member of Lambda Sigma Lambda Service Sorority, Women's Recreation Association, both the Dance and Entertainment Committee and the Hospitality Committee of the Student Union and in the Homecoming court during her senior year.

Ann has been an officer in Theta Phi Alpha Sorority, the Elementary Education Club and Kappa Delta Pi honor Society in Education. This year she served as Cardinal Key President.

R.O.T.C.
Trains Leaders

R.O.T.C.'s purpose is to recruit, train, and make officers of college men. The basic training consists of military history, map reading, logistics and the organization of the army. Upon finishing the basic course, if a cadet is qualified, he will enter the advanced course. Tactics, military law, and branches of the army are covered. A six weeks basic training course at Fort Sill, Oklahoma prepares a cadet for his duties ahead as an officer. Upon his graduation he receives a commission with adequate training to face the outside world.

This Is R.O.T.C.

Incorporated into this year's R.O.T.C. program was the Combat Proficiency Test replacing part of the regular drill program. Not only was physical conditioning emphasized but also the ability to defend oneself in hand to hand combat and handle field problems. The program included combat and reconnaissance patrolling to familiarize the cadet with the practical application of their knowledge from the classroom.

Pershing Rifles, Rangers

Parades, drill meets, and other performances are the pride of Company I-6. This drill unit strives to be the best. Their performance in carnival parades reflects discipline and military bearing. Their participation in rifle matches has made them the best in the Sixth Regiment.

Physical training, hand to hand combat, and field maneuvers are the Rangers bag. Their stress on physical conditioning is of the utmost importance. They take pride in being in shape.

Sponsors

It has always been an honor to be selected an R.O.T.C. sponsor. The Little Colonel and Company Sponsors are selected from the nominations of individual cadets and elected by the entire battalion, and the companies. The Little Colonel is the highest honor bestowed on a Co-ed. by the battalion. Altogether the sponsors add color and esprit de corps to the military atmosphere of drill.

Military Life Is Ceremony And Custom

Parades, reviews, and retreats, formal balls and cocktail parties, are an integral part of Loyola's military life. These ceremonies, from formal inspection to lowering the flag on Thursday, instill pride and occasionally give pause to the hurrying campus.

There is no need to fear that these people will be lost to the living world because they often "rock out." As usual, the Military Ball was the high point of the social calendar. Cadets and Cadre alike could be seen "letting it all hang out." Social experience is vital to a well rounded officer.

Football Club Hits Trouble On Gridiron

Loyola's revived intercollegiate football team met with its first losing season in its three years of competition. Lack of depth and student support told the tale as the season wore on and endurance sagged.

The Wolfpack opened the season with a 36-6 romp over hapless Centenary. Wayne Mumphrey sparked the victory, firing TD passes to Myles Wegman and George Joint and running for another score.

The Homecoming game against Spring Hill proved to be the turning point of the season. The evenly matched squads slugged it out in perfect football weather, trading score for score before 2,000 fans. The Pack led by two TD's going into the last quarter, and the outlook was good until the Badgers connected for two quick scores to take a 20-19 lead. The Pack took the kickoff with 28 seconds left to play, and brought the crowd to its feet with a 50-yd. Mumphrey to Casey Levy pass that moved the ball to the Badger 2. The opponents' defense solidified, and with a fourth and goal with four seconds left, the Pack gambled for the TD, only to be stopped at the line by stacked Badgers at the final gun.

In the season's finale, the deflated Pack went down 35-0 to a hopped up LSUNO squad. It was the first defeat in the three-year series of LU-Privateer gridiron tilts.

The end of the season saw the Football club campaigning for student financial subsidy. After three years of shoestring self-support, the club is plugging for a student tax to purchase new equipment, arrange better team transportation and expand its schedule. The club's success on the financial field will determine future vitality of intercollegiate football at Loyola.

Luksta Experiences Dismal Debut

Bob Luksta's first year as Wolfpack basketball coach proved to be a dismal one. Faced with an insufficient budget, serious personnel losses, and little student support, Luksta watched his Pack cagers lose all but one road game and compile an inglorious 5-19 season record.

The Pack started the season off by taking a 109-82 drubbing at the hands of "Pistol" Pete Maravich and his fellow LSU Tigers. The loss pattern predominated through the Winter Classic at Santa Barbara during the Christmas holidays, after which the team suffered its worst blow of the season. Seven members dropped from the squad.

The rest of the season saw an overworked Pack go great guns for the first half only to tire and fall behind in the final period. The Pack wrapped up the year with a flourish by beating Spring Hill and Centenary.

"Chargin' Charlie" Powell closed out his college career in fine fashion by breaking five Loyola scoring records, including the most points scored over a three-year period (1525), the most scored in a single game (45), and the most scored in a single season (651).

Weddle's Wolfpups Post 6-6 Record

Coach Al Weddle's Wolfpups battled personnel losses and injuries and wound up posting a 6-6 record in spite of it all. It was Weddle's fourth consecutive season without going in the red, and it gives the young coach a worthy 43-17 record at Loyola.

Chris Oswald and Tim Schneider, the only two scholarship athletes on the squad, stood out in the season action. Oswald led the team in scoring and rebounding, compiling a point-per-game average of 26.6. Schneider, with a 19.9 scoring average is one of the best all-around cage players to arrive at Loyola. Both he and Oswald will be welcomed on the varsity next year.

Baseball Team Wins In Spite Of Injuries

The Wolfpack baseball squad proved it could hitch up its belt and win in spite of injury losses. Coach "Rags" Scheuermann had his work cut out for him after losing star pitcher Jim Meza and regular catcher Vic Carlock for the entire season. Injuries hit hard after play opened, benching big guns Glen Balsamo, Ricky Caballero, Chuck Abadie and Rudy Kael for more than a week. For four games, six out of nine of the Pack squad were out of action and the team dropped five straight games. The decimated and hard-pressed Wolfpack took it all in stride and bounced back to win seven in a row and get back in the "won" column. Mark Comarda proved to be the bright spot in the overworked pitching staff, which was joined by all-around wizard Frankie "Bailey" Fortunato. Sophomore Tim Nordbrook put in a brilliant and enduring performance at shortstop, and work horse Jerry Brechtel carried the weight as catcher in fine fashion.

The season was a smacking success despite the record on paper. The Pack squad is a young one, and prospects for next year are bright—barring injuries.

Disappointing Year Plagues LU Netters

The most talented and most promising tennis team in recent years at Loyola met with a disappointing season this year. Plagued by a miniscule budget, near-total student non-support and scheduling difficulties, the squad's morale took a further beating by losing as many matches as they won. Yeoman efforts by team captain George Palmer, Julian Eaton and Mark McLaughlin were not enough to break into the black, and the team wrapped up the season with a middling 4-4 record.

Young Golfers Look Promising

The 1969 golf team wrapped the season with a smashing upset over Tulane and finished with a record of 6 wins and 8 losses. Jim McNulty, the team's top golfer, toppled Tulane's top man Joel Miller in that final game which was highlighted by flashy dresser Jerry Nolan. On the last green, Nolan holed a double eagle with a six iron, the only such feat of the season.

Prospects for LU golf in 1970 look good. Only John O'Connor, the team captain, has upperclassman status. The rest of the players are freshmen, leaving three years of promising golf ahead.

Ann Moore Pilots Scents To Victory

The underdog Heavenly Scents exploded in the second half to break a scoreless deadlock and go on to skunk the Hellcats 20-0 in the annual powder-puff tilt.

Coaching by New Orleans Saints Steve Stonebreaker and Tom Barrington bore fruit in a defensive standoff in the first half. The second half brought on an offensive onslaught by the Scents. Ann Moore's bullseye passing to Susan Wheeler clicked for three TD's and two conversions. Hellcat quarterback Mary Ann Batinish couldn't seem to connect to get her team's offense moving, and the game ended in a 20-0 shutout.

Independents Retain Swim Title

The seven-woman Independent team took first place in women's swimming for the second year in a row. The talented Independents won all events but the 25-yard freestyle and 25-yard backstroke, which Joan Brodie of Theta Phi Alpha captured hands down. Joan was voted the outstanding swimmer of the meet, scoring most of second-place Theta Phi's 27 points. Tri Sig and Tri Phi placed a distant third and fourth respectively.

Theta Phi Wins Coed Net Crown

Theta Phi Alpha's cumulative points proved too much for Ann Moore's championship form in the women's tennis tourney. Susan Wheeler and Peggy Mummy of Theta Phi bested Tri Phi's dynamic duo Maureen O'Dwyer and Connie Chapman in doubles. Independent Ann Moore took first in singles but was outpointed by Susan Wheeler and Kerry Leftwich of TPA who placed second and third respectively. In point totals, Theta Phi scored 25, Tri Phi collected 20 and the In-Town Independents got 15.

In-Towners Score Big

The In-Town Independents further proved their athletic prowess by sweeping both volleyball and badminton. Sigma Sigma Sigma, last year's volleyball champs, dropped to third behind the Independents and Tri Phi.

Ann Moore proved the Independent winning factor in badminton competition, taking first in singles and doubles, but performed only well enough to earn an overall third place for Theta Phi behind Tri Phi.

TPA Takes Cage Laurels

Women's intramural basketball exacted its normal toll of skinned knees, devastated hairdos and bruised ribs. When the smoke cleared from the court, Theta Phi Alpha had defeated everyone and downed nearest contender Tri Phi twice to emerge the champs. Theta Phi's strength was bolstered by pledge Ann Moore who left the In-Town Independents and came on over to the sorority side. The Independents placed third and KBG took fourth in the extended playoffs.

ADG Sweeps Mural Track

Alpha Delt cindermen literally ran away with the intramural track crown, placing first in six events and racking up a total of 190 points. ADG's closest competitor was ROTC with 85 points followed by Phi Kappa Theta and Blue Key in the third and fourth spots.

Bob Dooley of ADG was the outstanding sprinter of the meet, turning in a 24.7 in the 220 and a 55.4 in the 440 to win both events. Muscleman Joe Chris Sullivan of Blue Key starred in field events, heaving the shot 56'4" and the discus 145'3½" to take both contests and score all of Blue Key's points.

ROTC Garners Swimming Title

The ROTC swimming team, led by Wayne Dewey and Tim McCune, placed first in every event and romped on to take the men's intramural swimming championship with a whopping 210 points. ROTC completely swamped their opponents, beating second-place UBL by a 155-point margin. The Phantoms took third with 30 points, and PKT placed fourth with 10.

Dewey and McCune were voted the meet's outstanding swimmers. Each won two events, Dewey triumphing in the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 25.9 and the 50-yard backstroke in 30.2, while McCune grabbed the 100-yard freestyle in 58.4 and the 50-yard butterfly in 31.2.

Speed, Defense Spark PKT Football Win

Lean and hungry Phi Kappa Theta turned the tables twice on former champ ADG to capture the intramural football crown and avenge last year's dual loss to the Alpha Delts.

Two teams dominated each of the two leagues during regular play. In the Independent league, Rene Loyola's Phantoms and David Doerle's Dents maneuvered for a showdown in the finals. When the smoke and dust cleared, Doerle's superb passing had crushed the Phantoms 38-6.

PKT and ADG led the Fraternity League throughout the season, spoiling for a chance to prove who was champ. The heartstopping league championship game went into sudden-death overtime where PKT's speed and defense wore down ADG to the tune of 13-6.

The playoffs saw the frats down the independents, ADG over the Dents 12-6 and PKT over the Phantoms 13-0. PKT and ADG turned to each other for the final standoff. The PKT combination of Wayne Mumphrey and Casey Levy proved too much, and ADG went down for the last time in a hard-fought 13-6 contest.

Basketball Title Goes To Phantoms

The fantastic Phantoms put down a strong Dent squad 63-58 in the finals of the intramural basketball tourney and emerged the only undefeated team in the series.

The Dents advanced to the finals on the grace of four clutch free throws in the last 30 seconds of play against ADG. The Dents put in a fine performance in the final game, but it wasn't enough. Phantom ace Earl Thompson hit with deadly accuracy from the outside, and teammates Bob Luten and Barry Faust did their damage in close to contain the Dents throughout the game.

Thompson was voted the tourney's most valuable player, and joined comrades Luten and Faust on the all-tournament team. It was Luten's third consecutive season on the honors squad and Faust's second. The Dents placed Steve Coppejan and Johnny Allen on the top team, the only group besides the Phantoms to be awarded more than one all-tournament representative.

SAK Takes Boxing Title

Spring fever and boxing swept the campus at the same time this year. Enthusiastic boxing buffs watched Sigma Alpha Kappa battle its way to four divisional titles, four second spots and the intramural boxing championship. Defending champs ADG took second place despite brilliant fighting by Tom White and John Perez. White successfully defended his title in the 141-145 weight class. White's slugfest with SAK's Pat McCardle brought a standing ovation from the crowd and won White the Tournament's sportsmanship award. Former golden glover Perez took a total of 77 seconds to demolish his two opponents and grab the outstanding boxer crown.

PKT Downs ADG For Baseball Crown

In the midst of the Wolf's chaotic final deadline, PKT's Casey Levy scored the only run in the final game against ADG to lead his fraternity to the intramural baseball championship. Levy hit a triple in the first inning and came on home on an overthrow. PKT held the Alpha Delts scoreless for the rest of the game, and the game ended a 1-0 shutout. Phi Kap Richie Senac was named the most valuable player of the tournament.

PKT, ADG and the Phantoms were all undefeated going into the semi-final round of eliminations. PKT overpowered the Phantoms 4-2 and ADG bested a strong ROTC team 9-8 to move into the finals.

The conclusion of baseball competition saw ADG rack up enough points to cop the All-Sports trophy. PKT placed second a scant 25 points behind. SAK placed third, and independent Phantoms and ROTC placed fourth and fifth respectively.

Where Y'at, Sports Fans?

The very fallible Wolf staff and the Men's Intramural Board have boo-booed again. These two pages were to have been devoted to wrestling, which was held as the Wolf was rushing madly to make its final deadline. The wrestling tourney was supposed to have lasted two nights, the prelims the first night and the finals the night thereafter. We of the Wolf thought we would play it cool and send our mighty photo staff the night of the finals and grab only the important stuff. This would save us time, which we were critically short of. Mistake number one. Mistake number two was contributed by Dave Lagarde and the Intramural Board. The second night of competition did not materialize. Finals and prelims were all lumped together the first night in order to get on with the lagging baseball competition. Result: A FUBAR. No second night of wrestling, and no photo men at the first (and only) night. So no pictures to record the grunting and straining and the overwhelming SAK victory. So what does a staff do with two pages left after the entire remainder of the athletics section is already in? After much internal hemorrhaging, we came up with this. These are the pix that should have made it in the preceding pages, but did not because of space limitations.

And there you have it, sports fans.

Where y'at?

KBGs Go "Un-Formal" In '69

Kappa Beta Gamma's 1968-69 calendar began with first semester rush. Other first semester activities included a luau, the unusual Homecoming display with the brothers of SAK, participation in the powder puff activities, and the Winter "Un-Formal."

Second semester activities included rush, the "Kappa Kitchen" at Mardi Gras, the Spring Formal, and the annual seafood farewell party at the close of school.

A new tradition, the selection of a Kappa Knight, was inaugurated this year by the Kappas.

Phi Phi Phi Social Sorority began its 11th year on campus by inducting 24 new members. The sisters continued their yearly activities with the traditional Broomstick Brawl, Halloween Night in the Danna Center and the Soiree later in the year in the French Quarter.

Working with Phi Kappa Theta fraternity, the Tri Phis "Bagged the Badgers" for Homecoming. The Winter Formal closed activities for the fall semester.

January found the Tri Phis facing another hectic rush which netted them 20 new members. Then came Talent Night which saw the Phis participate en masse in the "Tri Phi Follies."

After a long, busy year, the sorority headed for the Gulf Coast in the spring for House Parties Weekend. They capped off the year with their Spring Formal and the Spring Banquet.

At Homecoming Tri Sig worked with the Beggars on their flying "Curse You, Red Badger" display behind the Field House which took first place in the rain-plagued decorations competition.

In the second semester, the sisters carried the skit competition in Blue Key Talent Night with "Penelope and Ulysses."

At the Awards Day Convocation, both the sisters and the pledge class received the Pan-Hellenic Scholastic Award.

Socially, the sisters were also active from the beginning. The social season was highlighted by the Fall Formal at the Sheraton Charles, starring national recording artist Shane Martin.

Theta Phi Wins All-Sports Trophy

In its ninth year on Loyola's campus, Theta Phi Alpha National Social Sorority took 44 new members into its sisterhood.

The September Send-Off Dance and Homecoming decorations started off the year. In a joint effort with ADG fraternity, the sisters created the "Brand the Badgers" display on Freret Street. The sisters worked together for academic achievement and participated in intramural sports, winning the women's All-Sports trophy.

Theta Phi also entered Blue Key Talent Night with their skit, "The Sappy Salvation of Shirley Simple." Springtime also saw the annual Orphan's Picnic in Audubon Park.

Social activities such as pledge-member parties, houseparties on the Gulf coast, Winter and White Rose formals were enjoyed by all the sisters.

ADG Takes All-Sports Trophy

Alpha Delta Gamma spent its 45th year on campus engaged in a variety of civic, athletic and social activities.

Civic works included an Orphan's Picnic, adoption of a Vietnamese war orphan, sponsorship of a baseball team for underprivileged black children, aid to the Leukemia Society, work at the Cripple Children's Hospital, and blood donations.

ADG fared well in the field of athletics, taking the All-Sports Trophy. The track team finished first behind the leadership of Bob Dooley, who was named most valuable track man. After a hard fought football season the brothers finished second. John Perez was selected most valuable boxer and Tom White was given the outstanding sportsman award as ADG finished second in boxing. The basketball team placed third and the baseball team took second place.

The social season was highlighted by a Hell's Angels costume party, the Rush Formal at Gallier Hall, and the Spring Formal on the Mark Twain Riverboat.

The men of Beggars celebrated their 46th year on Loyola's campus with one of the finest years in its long history.

Together with the sisters of Tri Sig, the Beggars took first place in Homecoming decorations with their flying "Curse You, Red Badger." Talent Night was also rewarding as they took second place in group competition with their "Blew Grass Band."

To finish the year in fine shape, Beggars' rushees signed 21 out of 23 bids and the fraternity initiated 19 outstanding members.

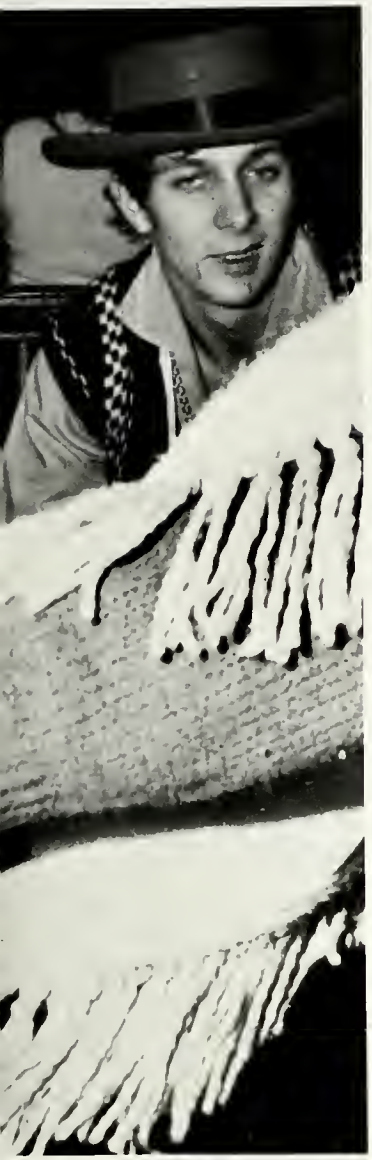
PKT Takes Football And Baseball



The Alpha Sigma, Phi Kappa Theta became the 75th chapter of Phi Kappa Theta International Social Fraternity. The chapter accepted 16 men and 4 honorary initiates into the brotherhood in the 1969 pledge season. The year was also marked by a round of social, athletic and community activities.

Socially the brothers entertained themselves at annual theme parties, such as the Tom Jones Party, the Mexican Party, the Soul Party, and the Crimson Rose Spring Formal.

Athletically, the brothers excelled in football and baseball by winning the Championships in each and participated in other sports, such as basketball, boxing and track.

This year the PKT's volunteered their services to help the dependent boys at Madonna Manor every week, contributed to the United Fund and the Thanksgiving Fund.

The brothers worked with Phi Phi Phi at Homecoming to construct the "Bag the Badgers" display in the horseshoe on St. Charles Avenue.

SAKs Win Intramura
Boxing And Wrestlin

The brothers of Sigma Alpha Kappa began their 46th year c campus by immersing themselves in sports and social activities.

This spring the brothers defeated the defending champion ADG to win boxing and, as usual, carried wrestling.

During Homecoming, the brothers worked with the sisters of KE on an original pop art exhibition in front of the Music School.

The SAK social activities included their annual Luau, Tom Jone Cowboy, Crayfish, and Roman Parties. The highlight of the soc season was the Spring Sweetheart Formal at the Rivergate.

This year an active alumni chapter was formed, with its own f round of activities.

All UBL Bids Signed

Upsilon Beta Lambda Social Fraternity accepted 15 members into its brotherhood during 1969, its 44th year on campus.

UBL once again numbered among its many activities its annual Orphans Picnic. Athletically, the UBL's participated in every intramural sporting event.

The brothers also worked with the freshman girls for a Homecoming project. The two groups pooled their efforts to give the festivities the colorful display entitled "Paddle the Badgers and Send Them Down the River."

Socially, the fraternity had weekly "Let's Get Together" parties and monthly theme parties and picnics. The brothers closed 1969 with the annual Seafood Banquet and the Blue and Gold Formal.

Beta Beta Beta

The Eta Lambda Chapter of Tri Beta was founded on 25 March 1956. It is an organization for the student of the biological sciences, seeking to promote sound scholarship in this field by limiting its membership to those with a high academic record and an aptitude in the biological sciences. Through its efforts to promote an appreciation for the subject of biology and to further the knowledge of nature through scientific investigation, it seeks to spread scientific information and to promote biological research. In general, Tri Beta seeks to unite the students of the biological sciences by virtue of their common interest in biology. Activities for this scholastic year include sponsoring four guest lectures, helping conduct the convention of the South Central Branch of the American Society of Microbiology, conducting a nation-wide high school essay contest, and participating in national and regional conventions and competitions.

The Student Council, led by Tom White and Mike McConnell, accomplished many new—and different—projects this year. For the first time, students were appointed by the council president to serve on policy-making committees of the university including the newly created Committee on Student Rights and Freedoms, the Student Affairs Policy Advisory Committee, the University Board of Appeals and the Board of Communications. Students were also nominated by the council to serve on a Council of Academic Planning which is developing long-range academic plans for Loyola. The council formally separated from the Student Union this year, which had been a committee of the council. The council also sponsored an annual boat dance, the Homecoming Dance and a speech by John Kenneth Galbraith. And after one of the most publicized election campaigns, with heated debates and issues centering on change in the structure and functions of the council, students elected Billy Guste the new president for 1969-70.

Aggressive Maroon Covers, Interprets Campus News

The Maroon celebrated its 45th anniversary on the Loyola Campus this year by changing its face, both physically and in news content. By acquiring the most modern "cold type" setting equipment available, the Maroon switched from the "hot lead" operation it had been for the past 44 years to "the in thing" in journalism—the offset publication. In making the transition, some journalism majors found themselves more involved in their product than ever before. Besides writing, editing, doing layouts and taking pictures, Maroon staffers were involved in pasting up, designing and setting their own ads and doing everything the trained journalist does, except operating the printing press. At the same time content of the Maroon was also improved. Aggressive reporting brought scads of letters to the editor each week. The Maroon was read this year.

Wait Just A Cotton-Pickin' Minute!

Before calling it quits, there are some acknowledgments that I must make. First of all, my hat's off to my staff for the tremendous job they did and for putting up with my tyrannical ways and grouchy disposition. Thanks Karla ... Dan ... Dog ... Marsha ... Bill ... Patty ... Steve ... Marianne ... John ... Rick ... Katy ... Chris. Thanks are in order to Leonard White and Tom Bell for advice and consolation when things went haywire. A word of gratitude must also go to my patient professors who somehow understood the plight of an editor and let me turn in papers and assignments later than late.

Special heartfelt thanks must go to the many volunteers who chipped in to save our necks. Mary Ann Brasted, Elsie Ramirez, Ginnie Rouchon and Kathy Walsh did yeoman work on a regular basis, and Ruth Goldcamp and Flora Hood did a lot to ease the burden of the distasteful but necessary paper work. Barney Fortier, Joe Wright, Keith Holtsclaw and Joe Gavrin came through with vital photo contributions, and even goofy Walter Mattingly collaborated on one of the book's more fun pix.

Deadline time saw many welcome faces come to our aid. APO's finest showed up ... Jerry Merkel, Roy Broussard, Tony Lopez and Frank Oschmann. Mountains of typing disappeared at the hands of Wally Schneidau, Linda Heindl, Michele Colonel, Brian Von Gruben, Bernie Atkinson, Jay Troy, Warren Browning, Pat Beauchamp, Josie Morgan, Lynette McBride, Jane Ryan and Alan Vera. The Maroon's men for all seasons, Ed Anderson and Gary Atkins, dropped in to write desperately needed copy and headlines, and did much to liven up the long work sessions.

Then came the Index. Gregson Payne threw open the doors of his Computer Center and saved us many hours of drudgery. Steve Attaya ramrodded the card punching, programming and sorting, and between the regulars and volunteers on the machines, the Index was done in one-fourth the man hours it would have taken manually.

My debt is great to all these, but it goes back further in time ... to Mickey Fergusson and Jim Payne for kindling the fire, and to Whitney Engeran and Tom Bell for stoking it.

And there you have it, folks,

Peace.
